

To have a business is to be in an active and committed relationship with clients, potential clients and repeat buyers.

This relationship is based on a shared future vision, where the growth of clients, business owner and business, are a mirror image of each other.

It is the responsibility of the business owner to build and develop the company so that it embodies the desired future of both business owner and clients.

To be an artist is to be in an active and committed relationship with a craft, a calling, a message or a vision, as it is coming through.

*This relationship takes shape in following curiosity, passions, hunches.
In following your Heart.*

An artist is not responsible for expressing their highest work;
But for creating the circumstances, so that their highest work can express through them.

A Rock Star is a performance artist, who can raise sexual energy, knows how to hold it, and how to move it.

They can transfer this sexual energy onto others.

A Rock Star is the physical embodiment of freedom.
